Introduction

This Handlist is intended to provide an easy-to-use short guide to the main genealogical sources in the Gloucestershire Record Office (excluding probate records).

Part I is an alphabetical list of Church of England parish registers held in the Gloucestershire Record Office. It includes original registers, film or fiche copies, transcripts and indexes. Covering dates only are given; full details are available in the Parish Register Guide in the Search Room. The same Guide gives full reference numbers for each parish register, which, for reasons of space, it is not possible to do here, and indicates whether you should use a microfiche or microfilm copy, or original register.

Census returns and monumental inscriptions have also been included in this list. The personal names index to 1851 census returns is now complete for most Gloucestershire parishes.

Part II contains lists of nonconformist registers and church rolls. The records of each denomination are listed separately; within each denomination chapels and circuits are arranged alphabetically. Lists of Methodist churches belonging to the various circuits at different times are to be found in the Appendix. Covering dates only are given; full details are available in the Search Room.

All sources for family history in Gloucestershire are well described in Margaret Richards' Gloucestershire Family History (Glos CC 3rd edition, 1993) which is available from the Records Office at £4.50 (postage extra)

AVAILABILITY OF THESE SOURCES ELSEWHERE

The Society of Genealogists (14 Charterhouse Buildings, London EC1M 7BA) holds microfilm copies of some Gloucestershire parish registers, as well as printed and manuscript transcripts, Roe's Marriage Index, and Bigland's Historical and Monumental and Genealogical Collections relative to the County of Gloucester (1791-1889). These same sources may be available through study centres of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Local libraries in Gloucestershire may have microfiche copies of the registers for that area, as well as the IGI and published sources.

PART II NONCONFORMIST RECORDS

How to use this handlist

This handlist has been devised to provide quick reference information on the availability in the Gloucestershire Record Office of original registers of birth/baptism, marriage and burial, transcripts and indexes of these, and Church Rolls that include lists of members' names, sometimes with dates of admission to and departure from the congregation. Records are listed under denomination, then alphabetically by place of church or chapel. Covering dates only are given; full details are available in the Search Room catalogues.

Registers held by the Public Record Office which are available on microfilm here are indicated by an MF reference. An index to these is being compiled by Kenneth Kelsey and those registers included in this are marked by an asterisk.

Background reading

A good brief introduction is: P Palgrave Moore, Understanding the History and Records of Nonconformity, 2nd edition 1988 (Elvery Dowers publications).

Further information on both Protestant and Roman Catholic nonconformist records can be found in the National Index of Parish Registers by D J Steel, Vols. II and III (London 1973-4) respectively. The records for Gloucestershire are listed in Vol. V of the same series (1966); although this is now out of date as regards place of deposit and detail of copies, etc., it can be useful to identify churches and chapels and to indicate sources available elsewhere. These volumes are to be found in the Record Office Searchroom (ROL H1) and also in the Gloucestershire Reference Library, Brunswick Road, Gloucester.

Marriages

It should be remembered when using these records that, Jews and Quakers excepted, between 1754 and 1837 all marriages had to be performed in the Church of England. Before 1754 both nonconformists and members of the Church of England could contract a marriage without a church ceremony and these are usually unrecorded.

Civil registration of births, marriages and deaths commenced in 1837; these records can be useful in tracing nonconformist marriages, especially where no chapel marriage book was kept or if no "authorised person" was in attendance. Civil registration records are available at St. Catherine's House, London.

Notes on the nonconformist denominations

BAPTIST

The Baptists did not practise infant baptism, so baptismal registers will consist of adult entries. However, for some chapels, birth registers only are held here.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

A denomination believing in adult baptism, which developed after 1842.

CONGREGATIONAL

Early Congregational churches were termed 'Independent', some of them dating back to 1662 or earlier. The term Congregational church came into general usage in the nineteenth century.

In October 1972 many Congregational churches combined with the Presbyterians to create the United Reformed Church. A number of Congregational churches remained outside the Union, some forming a new alliance known as the Congregational Federation.

COUNTESS OF HUNTINGDON'S CONNEXION

The Countess of Huntingdon, although an Anglican, possessed a strong evangelical feeling which brought her into conflict with the Church of England. Leaving the Established Church she founded a number of chapels around the country, which became known as her 'Connexion'. In some cases these churches later became Congregational, although they retained an association with the Connexion.

JEWISH

For historical information on the Jews, see the article by Edgar R Samuel in Sources for Roman Catholic and Jewish Genealogy and Family History by D J Steel (1974).

METHODIST

The Methodist church sprang out of the teaching of John Wesley in the 1730s that Christ was man's only salvation. Child baptism was practised.

With the splitting of the church into different denominations, the original body became known as the Wesleyan Methodists.

The Methodist New Connexion was founded in 1797. Church government was shared between ministers and the laity. One register was usually used for the entire circuit.

The Primitive Methodists came into being in 1807. This denomination was especially powerful in industrial areas. One register was usually used for the entire circuit.

The Independent Methodists were founded in 1805. In 1833 they became the United Churches of Christ, and in 1841 the United Free Gospel Churches. They changed their name back to Independent Methodists in 1898.

The Bible Christians (or O'Bryanites) were founded in 1815, and recognised the Bible as the only valid authority for doctrine.

The Protestant Methodists were created in 1827, but amalgamated with the Wesleyan Methodist Association in 1837.

The Wesleyan Methodist Association was formed in 1836, and wanted more rights for local churches as opposed to the power of the Annual Methodist Conference.

The Wesleyan Methodist Reformers were founded in 1849, again requesting more rights for individual members. In 1857 the majority of members united with the Wesleyan Methodist Free Churches. Those members who objected to this amalgamation formed the Wesleyan Reform Union, which remains independent.

Twentieth Century Unions

In 1907 the Methodist New Connexion, the Bible Christians, and the United Methodist Free Churches united to become the United Methodist Church.

In 1932 the Wesleyan Methodists and the Primitive Methodists joined the United Methodist Church to form The Methodist Church.

Thus all British Methodists are now united except for the Calvinistic Methodists (The Presbyterian Church of Wales), the Countess of Huntingdon's Connexion, a few surviving Independent Methodist circuits, and the Wesleyan Reform Union.

Organisation

The centre of the Methodist church organisation is the Annual Methodist Conference. Individual churches are grouped into circuits, and ministers are appointed by the Conference to the circuits, and not to individual churches. The circuits hold Quarterly Meetings and are grouped into districts, which hold twice-yearly synods.

Circuit boundaries change, so a church may appear in different circuits at different times. Also, circuits can either amalgamate or be created anew from those already existing. Notes of which churches formed the circuits at various times are to be found in the Appendix.

Registers

Most Methodist registers are of baptisms only. Hardwicke's Marriage Act 1753 forbade marriage ceremonies in Methodist churches and only after the Marriage Act 1898 were Methodist ministers allowed to conduct and register marriages. Marriage registers for the years since 1898 generally remain with the minister, being still in use.

MORAVIAN

The Moravian Brethren had a Presbyterian type of government. Only four churches ever existed in Gloucestershire, in Bristol City, Kingswood (nr. Bristol), Hewelsfield (Brockweir) and Apperley, a church later purchased by the Methodists. Infant and adult baptism is practised.

PRESBYTERIAN

The Presbyterian movement developed out of a challenge to the episcopacy in the 16th century. Infant baptism was practised. In 1972 the entire Presbyterian Church in England combined with some Congregational churches to found the United Reformed Church.

ROMAN CATHOLIC

For historical information on the Roman Catholic faith see Sources for Roman Catholic and Jewish Genealogy and Family History by D J Steel (Chichester, 1974).

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS (QUAKERS)

The Society of Friends was founded by George Fox c.1647, and possessed an organised structure by 1666. The Gloucestershire and Wiltshire monthly meeting had a number of centres, and an account of the changes in administration is included in the introductory pages of the Search Room catalogue for these records (D1340).

UNITARIAN

Unitarian congregations developed in the eighteenth century from either Presbyterian, Congregational or Baptist origins. A separate Unitarian denomination came into being after 1813. The Unitarians believed in child baptism.

UNDENOMINATIONAL

A number of churches lacked allegiance to any denomination and styled themselves 'Undenominational'. Many practised adult baptism. Confusingly, the term 'Free Church' can sometimes refer specifically to these chapels, while elsewhere it can be used as a blanket term for all nonconformist denominations.

POULTON - Poulton

In 1932 the chapels of the Cirencester Primitive Methodist circuit were integrated into the Stroud circuit.

THE FOREST OF DEAN

In 1824 the Oakengates Primitive Methodist circuit of Shropshire sent J. Roles as minister to the Forest of Dean miners. Based at Pillowell in the parish of West Dean, the popularity of the mission quickly resulted in the organisation of a circuit of cottages, which became independent of the Oakengates mission. The first Pillowell circuit chapel was built at Lydbrook in 1828.

By 1862 the Pillowell circuit included the following chapels in Gloucestershire:

CINDERFORD - Cinderford
DEAN, EAST - Blakeney Hill; Coppice Wood
DEAN, WEST - Berry Hill; Ellwood; Lane End; Moseley Green; Pillowell; Viney Hill

This was called the Ross and Coleford circuit by 1861, and became the Cinderford Wesleyan circuit in c.1878.

METHODIST CIRCUITS

THE FOREST OF DEAN (cont'd.)

A fifth circuit existed by 1837, when it was known as the Forest of Dean Mission. By 1858 it had changed its title to the Forest of Dean Bible Christian circuit, and in 1907 it became the United Methodist circuit. The circuit's membership in 1858 was as follows:

DEAN, EAST - Bailey; Drybrook; Edgehills; Ruspidge, Soudley; Yorkley slade
DEAN, WEST - Clements End Green
MITCHELDEAN - Mitcheldean
NEWLAND- Bream
WOOLASTON - Woolaston; Woolaston Common

In 1934 these five circuits were reduced to two - the Forest of Dean Mission and the Lydney and Pillowell circuit. The member chapels of the Lydney and Pillowell circuit in 1934 were as follows:

CINDERFORD - Cinderford
DEAN, EAST - Blakeney Hill
DEAN, WEST - Ellwood; Moseley Green; Oldcroft, Pillowell; Viney Hill
LYDNEY - Lydney
NEWLAND - Bream; Clearwell
WOOLASTON - Woolaston

In 1938 the Lydney and Pillowell circuit was absorbed into the Forest of Dean Mission, which became the Forest of Dean circuit in 1947. In 1958 it came under the Bristol district.
