

Sollars—Brown

Considerable interest was taken at the wedding, on Saturday, at Ebenezer Methodist Church, Upper Lydbrook, of Mr. Kenneth Walford Sollars, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sollars, Hangerberry, Lydbrook and Miss Thelma Joan Brown, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown, of Blyth, Northumberland. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Stuart Denyer, with Mr. G. Gibbs organist.

The best man was Mr. Arthur Sollars, bridegroom's brother.

The bride, given away by her brother-in-law (Mr. K. P. Ford) wore an ivory satin dress with train, feathered head-dress, full veil with silver shoes, and accessories to tone, carrying a shower bouquet of red carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Sheila Sollars (bridegroom's sister), Miss Barbara Ford (niece of bride) wearing blue and pink satin dresses with head-dresses and accessories to tone, carrying bouquets of anemones. She was also attended by two small page boys Master David Sollars (groom's brother) and her nephew, Master John Ford, both dressed in white blouses with long burgandy trousers with bows to match.

A reception was held in The Methodist Schoolroom, about 50 guests attending.

The honeymoon is being spent at St. Ives, Cornwall, the bride's going away suit being a green and brown check with accessories to tone. The future home is No. 1, Bayhead Villas, Lydbrook.
